

Accelerating Academic Success

Passionate about helping students realize their full potential, Children's Home Society of Florida has been a partner in school communities for more than nine decades. In the 1930s, CHS created a connection between schools and healthcare professionals to provide medical, dental, vision and hearing exams for students and, in the 1970s, lifted barriers to mental health resources by introducing school-based counseling.

Today, CHS continues to collaborate with local partners and school districts to provide opportunities that address the social, emotional and academic challenges faces by students every day. Our goal is to ensure they and their families have the solutions needed to overcome these barriers to education.

Through our Community Partnership Schools™ model currently implemented in 27 schools across Florida, our services and solutions are proven to accelerate academic success, as evidenced by:

Increased learning gains in FSA reading and math

Decreased out-of-school suspensions

Increased teacher retention and parental engagement
